THREE IN THE CONTEST

Action Taken by the Stuart Monument Committee.

THOSE THAT WERE CHOSEN

They Are the Work of Gudsbrod, Moyhihan and Morahan-Alterations Are to Be Made.

The honor of designing the equestrian statue of General J. E. B. Stuart will fall to one of three artists-Moynihan Gudebrod and Morahan, all of New York. This becomes necessary from the action of the committee at their meeting on Wednesday night. It looks more than ever as if Moynihan will get the contract, for it is learned from excellent authority that the committee was almost overwhelmingly in favor of selecting his model on the spot. To open the contest to the two other artists was an afterthought out of deference to the wishes of two or three members of the committee, who thought their models the best.

In regard to the three artists who have all won the victory over the contestants, the committee will ask them at once to modify their designs in cartain respects, which the committee will indicate.

LETTER TO BE SENT OUT.

The appended letter will be sent to all of the artists submitting models, save Messrs. Moynihan, Morahan and Gudebrod:

thought out of deference to the wishes

"Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Expeutive Committee of the Stuart Monument.
Association, held last evening, it was decided to return to the authors all models submitted for the equestrian strine to General Stuart, except the three models submitted by Mr. Moynihan, Mr.
Gudebrod and Mr. Morahan, and that these three sculptors be requested to prepare each another model, making the necessary changes in their original modeds as requested by the committee, and these models, at completion, to be submitted to the Executive Committee for final decision. The three models named were selected as coming nearer to the requirements of the committee than any others. Dear Sir,-At a meeting of the Exed-

"I am requested by the committee to express their appreciation and thanks to you for the part taken in this competition. "All models will be returned to the authors at the expense of the committee, unless otherwise directed by the sculpunless otherwise directed by the sculptors.

"Please let me hear from you as soon as possible as to the disposition of your model. "Respectfully "(Signed), M. J. DIMMOCK, "Chairman of Committee." WIDELY DIFFERENT.

The three models submitted by Messrs. Moynihan, Morahan and Gudebrod are widely different.

Mr. Moynihan's design represents Stuart's horse in action. Apparently the great cavalry leader has just ridden to the front, has drawn his horse back suddenly, and with face turned to the right is about to give orders or is taking in the situation in a hasty glance which was always sufficient for his quick eye. His sabre is drawn and he looks every inch the great general he was. The likeness of Stuart is quite good.

On the other hand, Mr. Morahan has represented the horse and rider in a quiet attitude, too quiet, almost every member of the committee said. But, the horse is admirable. The plaster animal caught the eye of General Lee in an instant. The horse was a redeeming feature of the model, the great drawback being caught the eye of General Lee in an instant. The horse was a redeeming feature of the model, the great drawback being that Stuart was never known to be still a moment in his life. Mr. Gudebrod represents his horse and rider in action. Apparently Stuart has ridden to the front and with gauntlet high in his right hand is cheering, and urging his men onward. The artist succeeded in getting an excellent likeness of Stuart and this caught the eye of all.

HAVE FAIR SHOWING.

When the vote came it is understood of the model, the great drawback being that Stuart was never known to be still a moment in his life. Mr. Gudebrod represents his horse and rider in action. Apparently Stuart has ridden to the front and with gauntlet high in his right hand is cheering, and urging his menoward. The artist succeeded in getting an excellent likeness of Stuart and this caught the eye of all.

HAVE FAIR SHOWING.

When the vote came it is understood that the odds were greatly in favor of Moynihan, but as some voted for the other two, and every one wanted the artists to have a fair showing, the decision in favor of Moynihan was reconsidered, and the decision reached which has already been indicated.

It is understood that the committee will ask Mr. Moynihan to lower the head of his horse somewhat, and to reduce the living mane and tall to some extent. In fact, there is a little too much action.

Mr. Gudebrod dees not please the com-

A communication from Messrs, S. H.
Hawes & Co., calling the attention of the Chamber to the urgent necessity for dredging by the city authorities in certain portlons of the harbor of Richmond, was considered.

The filling up of parts of the harbor from deposits due to a combination of circumstances which has, for some time, existed, was explained to the meeting and in connection with the communication referred to, which cited actual instances, the serious obstruction which these deposits presented to navigation, was fully discussed.

The necessity for prompt and effective The necessity for prompt and effective measures of relief was so clearly recognized that, upon motion of Mr. A. J. Chewning, it was decided to convey to the Committee on Improvement of James River, a copy of the communication of Messrs. Hawes & Co. with the earnest request that said committee should bring the situation as disclosed immediately to the attention of the City Council with the view that such action might be taken at once, as would be necessary to entirely relieve the commerce of this port from the grove and unprecedented impediments to which it is subjected from the present condition of the harbor.

The object of the committee's meeting is to come to some conclusion in the matter of naming candidates for the State Senate and House of Delegates in this city. It will be remembered that the committee some time ago met and prepared and promulgated a statement to the public in the nature of a criticism of Democratic administration of State and city government, and calling upon all other elements to unite in choosing and supporting a Fusion anti-Democratic ticket. It was hoped that the organized labor element of the population and the element opposed to the Mann bill would hold altoft from the Democratic primary and invite such a coalition as that suggested.
